Expect Canadian Troops

Back Home by Christmas

By ROSS MUNRO

WITH THE 1ST CANADIAN ARMY, May 15.—(CP)—All Canadian troops in Holland and Germany with the exception of the occupational forces are expected to be in Canada by Christmas. The latest survey indicates the army plans to send 25,000 home a month after June and during June 15,000 will be moved to Canada.

An occupational force of 25,000 with 15,000 reinforcements will be left here.

There also are 75,000 Canadian soldiers in the United Kingdom who are to be returned home during the mass movement.

The movement to Canada of occupational forces will be carried out in three points under the re-allocation and demobilization point system and movement home of volunteers for the Far East should be completed by the end of July.

It was announced in Ottawa last week that a soldier will get two points for every month of Canadian service and three points for every month of overseas service. Twenty per cent will be added to the score of those who are married or have dependent children. The points will be deducted for each month of compassionate leave and three points for each month of detention.

This movement is to be done on a draft basis and after July 1, 1945, units will return as units. The 1st Division will return as a division and all its units should be on ships at United Kingdom ports some time in August, prepared to sail home.

Lethal Concoction

NEW YORK, May 14.—Three Brooklyn policemen who, police said, celebrated their new job by drinking a mixture of heroin, turpentine, alcohol, a soft drink and tapwater were dead yesterday while a fourth who drank the same concoction drank no ill effects.

Nazi U-Boats Still at Large In the Atlantic

Mr. Hinton, Commander of the Western Approaches to Great Britain, and the naval officer who had charge of operations against the U-boats.

Most of the 37 aircraft, surrendered had surfaced on the British side of the Atlantic. Sixteen were already in British ports and the others were en route after surrendering at sea to British surface vessels.

It is possible that crews of some of the missing U-boats may have decided that they would not surrender but would make their way to other parts of the world, scuttling them and make their way ashore to escape detection as was prisoners.

SECRET HIDEOUTS

It is believed that some of the U-boats were operating from secret hideouts along the South American coast. If that is true they would have friends ashore at these points and it might be possible for them to land and escape detection for some time, if not for ever.

There are several islands in out of the way places where crews could land and live for years without being picked up, and it is thought this might be the idea of some of the crew of the missing U-boats.

Story of Seizure by RCN Edmonton Men Board Nazi Sub As Craft Surrendered at Sea

By LIEUT. SCOTT YOUNG, RCNVR

WITH THE ROYAL CANADIAN NAVY IN NEWFOUNDLAND, May 15.—(CP)—The Royal Canadian Navy's Newfoundland command, a western Atlantic base for five terrible years, finally has the only tangible proof it would accept as the end of a peace—surrendered German submarine.

Almost since the day the German surrendered and were ordered to bring their U-boats to the surface and proceed to the nearest Allied port, radio reports have said a submarine had surrendered at Newfoundland. They were only partly right.

The first to surrender in this command was the U-boat which was the first to reach North America.

The second, after signalling its position, did not turn up but Monday at 6:20 a.m. the bodies of the crew were recovered.

Sometime last Wednesday or early Thursday a submarine signalled its position to RCN shore parties in Newfoundland. Back came the signal with the submarine to the frigate HMCS Victrola and the corvette HMCS Thunderbolt.

They left the convoy they were helping to guard and proceeded to the scene of the surrender.

It was a lovely, calm night when the Thorbeck closed on the submarine. The U-boat was dark and there was no decipherable reply.

TURNING thumbs down on a proposition where a fellow feels he can deliver is always tough. And it must be especially so where it has to do with a work developed over a period of 15 years or so, far beyond that of a mere hobby, and where the remuneration proffered is in black and white as much as to make the offer doubly attractive.

That is the situation in which John Dwyer finds himself after receiving a definite proposal, without strings attached, to become the Fastball Baseball League in Calgary this summer. John admits he would like to accept, but it's no dice. His duties with the American government here just won't permit his going to Calgary this year—that is unless the Sons of Heaven suddenly decide there's had enough of his present job no longer needs him. Earlier in the year John also had declined offers from the Eastern and Piedmont Leagues and Western Association.

For, if any will dispute Dwyer knows how to run a ball game. In addition to umpiring in the Edmonton senior league, John also handled some fixtures for the Football club last summer. Apparently he gave satisfaction, or President Bill Hansen would not have been obligated to bid for his services on an all-time basis this young.

KLEIN SHOWS YOUNG UMP'S
AID speaking earlier at the club, it is noted that Bill Klein is still around. They call him the "Old Arbiter" and in his line, they used to call him many other things, probably the same as his fellow craftsmen will continue to be labeled as well as baseball officials.

BROOKLYN, May 15.—(AP)—Brooklyn swept its 11th straight National League victory, the longest streak of the major league season, by downing Pittsburgh, Monday, 4-1, on a three-run homer by pitcher Leroy Pfund.

Pfund, a refugee from the St. Louis Cardinals, was making his first starting appearance after a first relief role and was never in serious trouble after a three-run homer by pitcher Leroy Pfund.

NEW YORK, May 15.—(AP)—Phil Weintraub's single to center in the 10th inning Monday scored pinch runner Leon Trengg and gave the Giants a 6-5 New York victory over Chicago in a National League game marked by four home runs.

Ray Reven poked two into the stands, his first in the second frame off Bob Chapman for a commanding early lead, and scored in the last of the ninth off Hy Vandenberg. Reven also added two singles, the first in the top of the ninth inning.

Reynold's winning-tripper of the day tied it in the bottom of the ninth. On started the winning rally with a single. Joe Medwick sacrificed the skipper to second and Weintraub followed with two decisive safes.

PHILADELPHIA, May 15.—(AP)—Evelyn Rozer, 25-year-old war veteran, whose only previous experience in organized baseball was playing for the Philadelphia Phillies in the major league last season, pitched a 5-0 victory for the Phillies over the Cardinals.

Rozer was in the eighth in the third inning, having pitched three innings in the first game of the season, and was relieved in the eighth by Bob Miller, who pitched the last two innings.

The Reds won the game in the third when they scored three runs off Vernon Kennedy to score four runs with the help of three Phil players.

Big Enough to Go Around Fat Freddie's Headache Shared by Grandstand Club

By HARRY GRAYSON

NEW YORK, May 15.—Evidently on the grounds that Fred Fitzsimmons' headache is big enough to go around, a Grandstand Managers' Club has been organized in Philadelphia to share it with the old pitcher.

Members of the Grandstand Managers' Club are entitled to practically everything but free admission, so if the Phillies keep going in the direction, Herb Pennock, sponsor of the idea, may have a hard time getting a quorum.

Anybody slack with the Phillies really is entitled to Shute Pops with antiquated Baker Bowl thrown in.

Having been exposed to the evidence of Brooklyn, Fat Freddie Fitzsimmons knows what it is to conduct games in an open market.

Taking counsel with the run of the mill address in the operation of a major league club is not even the operation of a minor league club.

It is just now that the Phillies are in the first place in the National League, and it is just now that the Phillies are in the first place in the National League.

IT JUST NOW
As a matter of fact, it was never necessary to organize a Grandstand Managers' Club in the bank of the Gateway. In the first place, it is impossible to organize anything in a baseball way in Brooklyn.
